

UC Riverside-Tohoku Joint Symposium

Date: 2010.11.19-20

Venue: Tohoku University, Kawauchi Campus, Global COE Meeting Room

Day One (Nov. 19)

9:45-

Opening remarks

Yoshimichi Sato, Distinguished Professor, Director of the Center for the Study of Social Stratification and Inequality (CSSI), Tohoku University

Anil B. Deolalikar, Professor of Economics and Associate Dean of Social Sciences, University of California Riverside

10:00-12:00

Labor market, risk and inequality

(moderator: Hiroshi Hamada, Associate Professor, Tohoku University)

Jun Imai, Assistant Professor of the CSSI

Yusuke Hayashi, Research Associate of Behavioral Science

“Employment deregulation and increasing fragmentation of workers’ career in Japan”

Yoshimichi Sato, Distinguished Professor of Behavioral Science, Director of the CSSI

“New middle class at risk in Japan?”

Jae-Woo Kim, Post-doctoral Research Associate of the CSSI

Yoshimichi Sato, Professor of Behavioral Science, Director of the CSSI

“Trust, Inequality, and Market Dynamics: A Mathematical and Computational Study”

12:00-13:30

Lunch break

13:30-15:30

Education and inequality

(moderator: Makiko Nakamuro, Assistant Professor, Tohoku University)

Hiroshi Hamada, Associate Professor of Behavioral Science

“A distribution function model of class differentials in educational attainment”

Robert Ream, Associate Professor of Education

“Trust Matters: Distinction and Diversity in Undergraduate Science Education in the United States”

Kevin Esterling, Associate Professor of Political Science

“Deliberative Democracy and Knowledge Inequality in the United States”

15:30-16:00

Coffee break

16:00-18:00

Peripheral labor markets and social justice

(moderator: Jae-Woo Kim, Post-Doctoral Research Associate, Tohoku University)

David-Antoine Malinas, Post-doctoral Research Associate of the CSSI, Assistant Professor of the IAREO

“Homeless people social movement in Japan and the new dynamic of civil society in Japan”

Todd Sorensen, Assistant Professor of Economics

“Policy and the Earnings of Marginalized Workers in the United States: Evidence from an Amnesty for Undocumented Workers”

Georgia Warnke, Distinguished Professor of Philosophy and Associate Dean of Arts and Humanities

“Recognition, Equality, and Interpretive Integrity”

18:30-

Reception

Day Two (Nov. 20)

10:00-12:00

Historical development of inequality and social movements

(moderator: Jun Imai, Assistant Professor, Tohoku University)

Jaok Kwon, Post-doctoral Research Associate of the CSSI

“Feminism in Democracy Movements in Korea: A Case Study of Korean Peasant Women’s Movements in the 1960-80s”

Rumi Matsuzaki, Post-doctoral Research Associate of the CSSI

“Positions and Roles of Wives and Concubines in Early Modern and Modern Japan: The Case of the Shimazu Family”

Annmaria Shimabuku, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature and Foreign Languages

“Ampo, Okinawa, and a Critique of Postcolonial Reason in Japan”

13:30-15:30

Inequality of access to social rights

(moderator: Hyun-Sun Lee, Assistant Professor, Tohoku University)

Makiko Nakamuro, Assistant Professor of the CSSI

“School Attendance and Migrant Remittances in Transition”

Jorge Agüero, Assistant Professor of Economics

Anil B. Deolalikar, Professor of Economics and Associate Dean of Social Sciences

“Emerging Inequalities in Child Health in South and Southeast Asia”

Tabassum "Ruhi" Khan, Assistant Professor of Media and Cultural Studies

“Aspirations of Marginalized Populations for Consumer Citizenship in Liberalized/Globalized Indian Society”

15:30-

Closing remarks

Yoshimichi Sato, Distinguished Professor, Director of the Center for the Study of Social

Stratification and Inequality (CSSI), Tohoku University

Anil B. Deolalikar, Professor of Economics and Associate Dean of Social Sciences,
University of California Riverside