

PROGRAM (as of May 20)

13th Annual INAS Conference 2021 online (INAS 2021 online)
May 29-30, 2021

The 13th annual INAS (International Network of Analytical Sociology) conference is held online (INAS 2021 online). It welcomes any papers, either theoretical, empirical, or methodological, that enrich fruits of analytical sociology. As originally planned in Tokyo, INAS 2021 is organized by a Japanese team.

Venue: Online (Zoom)

Conference website: <https://www2.sal.tohoku.ac.jp/~inas2020/>

Keynote speakers: Michael Hechter (Arizona State University), Mary C. Brinton (Harvard University)

Presentation format: 15 minutes oral presentation and 10 minutes discussion

How to participate? INAS 2021 is run on Zoom. To receive Zoom information, register at <https://forms.gle/NMf7oMiVzpDJVDpf6> (information will be sent by May 26; registration is free of charge). Make sure that your Zoom is version 5.6.5 or later. Four Zoom rooms are provided. All plenary events will be held at Room 1, while paper sessions are at Room 1 to 4. Time is based on Central European Summer Time (CEST).

How to present a paper? Use "Share Screen" function of Zoom to share your PowerPoint or PDF file. Only real-time communications are expected and no pre-recording is planned. Test your slides before your session starts. Stick to your time slot so that audiences can easily find you. Each session is chaired by the last (3rd or 4th) presenter (or their coauthor) in the session (chairs keep time). Allocated to each session, local staff at Seikei University is happy to provide you technical support.

Organizers: Jun Kobayashi (Seikei University), Masayuki Kanai (Senshu University), Yoshimichi Sato (Kyoto University of Advanced Science and Tohoku University), Naoki Sudo (Hitotsubashi University), Hiroki Takikawa (Tohoku University)

Local staff at Seikei University: Daisuke Watanabe, Yusuke Arai, Tian Qu, Kumiko Kamino
